The inner workings of Mohamed Lahouaiej Bouhlel’s mind has been exposed as investigators trawl through his phone which discovered in the truck he used to kill more than 80 people who were celebrating Bastille Day in Nice.

Seven individuals have now been arrested on suspicion of being involved in Bouhlel’s plot that killed 84 people, including 10 children, and left hundreds wounded.

The 31-year-old was killed after his murderous rampage through the streets of Nice

The divorced father of three has now been revealed to have used his phone to pursue men and women through dating apps.

French media outlet BFM TV revealed the terrorist's phone has been key to police investigations, with Bouhleh visiting a number violent sites, including those with images of executions, before the massacre.

But a number of selfies have been found on the terrorist's phone, as well as photos of his male and female conquests.

Police have also uncovered evidence that Bouhleh, who is understood to have been radicalised in a short period of time, would record evidence of his relationships with other people, however brief.

Family friends and neighbours have previously revealed the Tunisian-born man enjoyed wearing flowery shorts and tank tops to show off his muscles.

The 31-year-old was also said to have enjoyed salsa dancing with his family insisting he was not religious, often getting drunk and taking drugs.

A selfie of the terrorist sitting inside the truck he used to carry out the massacre was even found on the phone.

It has also been revealed that the terrorist asked for more weapons in the minutes before the attack on the Promenade des Anglais.

One of the recipients of the text message, which read: "Bring more weapons" is already in police custody.

Another text read: "It's good. I have the equipment."

A close family friend of Bouhleh's wife, Walid Hamou, earlier told the MailOnline that the killer was not religious.

He said: "He did not go to the mosque, he did not pray, he did not observe Ramadan.

"He drank alcohol, ate pork and took drugs. This is all forbidden under Islam.

"He was not a Muslim, he was a s***. He beat his wife, my cousin, he was a nasty piece of work."

Bouhleb was killed on the night of the massacre as police desperately tried to halt the progress of the truck, which went on a rampage over a 2km stretch for about 45 seconds.

The devastating stories of those killed in the attack have come to light in the days after the attack, including those who lost their entire direct family in the attack.

More than 200 police are involved in the investigation of the attack, which ISIS has claimed responsibility for.

France has now increased its security across the country with world leaders condemning the attack.

Sure is a common thread with these Muslim scumbags. Everything their little fairytale book explains to them what not to do, they do it. Drink alcohol, take every illegal drug imaginable, kill & murder, rape woman, fiddle with children and receive the meat of swollen goods (BattyHalalBoy).

Why the surprise? Everyone knows by now that these camel screwing, child murdering rapist cowardly scumbags are sub human at best. To paint him gay is an insult to humanity - he is/was just another nonentity who allowed other kiddy fiddling cowards to indoctrinate him into something he knew nothing about.
